NEW TEETH

Faye's 1999 choppers, above, aren't as white or as straight as they are today, below.

Veneers?

Star's Dental Detective, Dr. Kevin Frawley, thinks Faye had surgery to correct an uneven gum line. Also, "it looks like she had old fillings between her front teeth," he says. The fix was likely porcelain veneers at a cost of $1,500 per tooth!

Faye Dunaway is certainly looking refreshed these days! In the late '80s, the strikingly sculpted Bonnie and Clyde star, 64, appeared to have missed about a decade of beauty sleep. Not anymore! Today, Faye is again fabulous. Star asked New York City-based plastic surgeon Dr. Steve Fallek just how the Oscar winner may have turned back time.

Face-lift and eye job?

She may still have a few under-eye wrinkles, but otherwise, Faye's skin is startlingly smooth. Botox? Actually, Dr. Fallek thinks she did quite a bit more: face- and brow-lifts (at a cost of up to $10,000 and $7,000 each). "Her cheeks and the corners of her eyes are very elevated," he says, "and so are her eyebrows." He also suspects a lower eyelid-lift (cost: $5,000), which gets rid of discoloration and fat deposits under the eye.
