Paris' giant gem

The rather large and stunning Boucheron diamond necklace Paris Hilton sported while promoting her self-titled fragrance in Mexico last March boasts a hefty 75 carats. Valued at $525,000, it's a simple but spectacular accoutrement to her racy red look.

Fergie's perfectly perky cleavage

According to NYC plastic surgeon Dr. Steve Fallek, Fergie "probably did have implants, because [her breasts] look a bit high." The doc, who has not treated Fergie, feels The Black Eyed Peas singer has too much lift sans bra. "Natural breasts hang a bit more," he says. Her rep did not respond to requests for comment.
